The weather cooperated, as arts and crafts, food and various other vendors crowded US Highway 51 and the area behind Dr. Zetter's office.

The grilling teams of Tripple D and Draper's BBQ kept people fed and happy throughout the day, while the 5K got underway, along with music from Brandi Gibson's School

Jada Burgess, Arlington City Commissioner and Co-Director of the Arlington City Parks and Activities, told the Carlisle Weekly that she was elated at the turnout and support and she expects next year to be even better, with more vendors and activities.
"I would like to thank everyone who helped make this event successful in its first year. All vendors, all contestants in all the events, Arlington Fire Dept, Brandi's School of Voice, Carlisle Co Road Department, the City of Bardwell, Lance Black, Dr David Zetter, "Those Guys", the Mid Continent Softball Team, Alan Wilson, Larry Courtney, and West Kentucky RECC for helping the city meet its electrical needs for this event," Burgess said.

Burgess said that most importantly, she wanted to thank the community for coming out and supporting the event and spending time at the Arlington Apple Festival. "We realize there was a lot going on that day, and a great number of people came out and supported us during a busy day. For that, the City of Arlington and I are grateful," Burgess said.

The 2012 Paducah BBQ on the River was held last weekend and once again, a team from Carlisle County came out as a champion, as the Smokin' Hose Grilling Team of Cunningham, Kentucky, won Reserve Champion for the 2012 Event. The Smokin' Hose Team also won second place in the Ribs category.

BBQ on the River has become an annual event for Carlisle County BBQ teams to gather, enjoy each other's company and support the causes of their choice.

This year, the Smokin' Hose Grilling Team's proceeds from their sales went to help the Juvenile Diabetes Research Fund (JDRF).
JMACK Cookers, previous Grand Champions of BBQ on the River past, were supporting the Twin Lakes Church with their BBQ sales. It was also good to see Mr. John Mike Ford in attendance at the event, as well.
Carlisle Countians who didn't cook for barbeque teams were also in attendance helping their causes. The Hope that Binds, an orphan Adoption Care Ministry that began in Cunningham, Kentucky, was on hand selling "Orphan Aid". Customers had their choice of specialty drinks, either orange aid or cherry lime aid, with the proceeds going towards giving support to Christians who are trying to find their role in adoption.

Larry Fraser of Murdoc's, was selling his deep fried Snickers, red velvet cakes and other fried goodies to help out the Kentucky State Police and their charitable services.

Fiscal Court Resolves to Accept County Roads 1330 and 1324 Into Road System

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

The Carlisle County Fiscal Court met on October 2, 2012. The meeting began with the approval of the previous meeting's minutes and the Carlisle County Ambulance Service report by Ambulance Service Director Wayne Floyd.

Floyd reported that there were 47 advanced life support runs, 30 basic life support runs, and 30 runs to convalescence patients, for a total of 126 runs for the month. County residents were assisted 21 times and two patients were air lifted.

For the year the ambulance service has taken in $149,964 in Medicare and regular funds. Floyd reported that the new 911 billing service has taken a great amount of work off of the ambulance service, as the job of billing has been reduced from a six hour a week job to 45 minutes. Floyd said he is learning how to read the reports that the 911 billing service gives out at the end of the month, and he will look to see how the service can better serve the people of the county through those reports.

In the coroner's report, Carlisle County Coroner Steve Freeman was not in attendance, but he did present the fiscal court for a bill for a recent run. With the runs costing the county nearly $700 per run, Magistrate Sonny Pearson asked if there was a way that the county could fix and use an out of service ambulance and in the end, save money on those coroner runs.

Carlisle County Judge Executive Greg Terry told Pearson and the court that the county will get an estimate from Scotty Ballard of Ballard Automotive, and actively pursue this idea.

In the emergency management report, Director Carissa Viniard told the court that Emergency Services and the county were waiting on money from FEMA. The paperwork was filed and the county is just awaiting word.

In the Carlisle County Jailer's Report, Ronny Owens reported that there were three inmates in the Hickman County Correctional Facility and three inmates in the Ballard County Detention Center.

In the road department report, Carlisle County Road Department Supervisor Jerry Bowman reported that the work on County Line Road has progressed, as dirt is being moved to rebuild the road and brush is beginning to be cleared.

The two cemetery roads were built last week, and the county is now waiting for the right weather to chip and seal the roads. However, with temperatures expected to dip in the upcoming weeks, the chipping and sealing of the roads will have to wait until warmer weather presents itself.

The bridge on 1037 was discussed. Hays Backhoe and Concrete of Cunningham, Kentucky, will be working on the end of the bridge soon to stabilize and fix that problem area.

In the 911/Solid Waste Report, Director Josh Glover reported that there were 198 calls for service placed at the Carlisle County 911 Dispatch Center, with 94 of those calls being wireless phone calls.

Glover next recommended the county go with Power Phone for its dispatching needs. Glover, Judge Executive Terry and Wayne Floyd all sat in on a teleconference meeting with people at Power Phone.

Power Phone is an emergency medical dispatching service that trains dispatchers to give citizens in distress, step-by-step instructions on how to treat their symptoms or injuries in that time while they are waiting for the ambulance service to respond.

An example would be a dispatcher helping a patient as they were having a heart attack. As the ambulance service begins to make their way to the patient's home, the dispatcher would give those instructions on how to perform self CPR or other life saving methods. Ambulance Director Wayne Floyd said any tips that can be given to the patient while the ambulance service is on their way could mean the difference between life and death. The county would pay a onetime fee of $4,400 and that would cover the tablet that would be purchased for the system, training of the dispatchers and certification of present and future dispatchers.

In the solid waste report, Glover reported that the fall clean-up dumpster program that happened in August cost the county $6,560.00. All of the magistrates agreed that the program was well worth it because of the waste that was not dumped in Carlisle County creeks and ditches. Judge Executive Terry said the county will look in to having a spring clean-up if the funds are available.

Under new business, the county passed resolutions to adopt County Roads 1330 and 1324 into the county road systems.

Ernie Skeritt with the Milburn Fire Department was in attendance and he received permission from the fiscal court to sell a surplus pumper truck to the Columbus Fire Department for $3,500. Skeritt also received authorization to spend Department of Forestry grant money to purchase equipment for the Milburn Fire Department.

Transfers and claims were accepted and passed and with there being no further public business, the Carlisle County Fiscal Court went into closed session to discuss personnel.

USDA Announces Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments Sign-Up Period for 2011 Crop Losses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28, 2012—Farm Service Agency Administrator Juan Garcia announced today the sign-up period for the 2011 crop year Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments (SURE) program will open Oct. 22, 2012. The SURE program is part of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (Farm Bill). Under the 2008 Farm Bill, SURE authorizes assistance to farmers and ranchers who suffered crop losses caused by natural disasters occurring through Sept. 30, 2011.

"Any eligible producer who suffered losses during the 2011 crop year is encouraged to visit a local FSA office to learn more about the SURE program and how to apply," said Garcia.

As of Sept. 30, 2011, the Department's authority to operate the SURE program expired along with four other, important disaster assistance programs: the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP); the Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP); the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP); and the Tree Assistance Program (TAP). Production losses due to disasters occurring after Sept. 30, 2011, are not eligible for disaster program coverage. To be eligible for SURE, a farm or ranch must have:

- At least a 10-percent production loss on a crop of economic significance;
- A policy or plan of insurance under the Federal Crop Insurance Act or the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) for all economically significant crops;

- Been physically located in a county that was declared a primary disaster county or contiguous county by the Secretary of Agriculture under a Secretarial Disaster Designation. Without a Secretarial Disaster Designation, individual producers may be eligible if the actual production on the farm is less than 50 percent of the normal production on the farm due to a natural disaster. A "farm" for SURE purposes means the entirety of all crop acreage in all counties that a producer planted or intended to be planted for harvest for normal commercial sale or on-farm livestock feeding, including native and improved grassland intended for haying.

Producers considered socially disadvantaged, a beginning farmer or rancher, or a limited resource farmer may be eligible for SURE without a policy or plan of insurance or NAP coverage.

Farmers and ranchers interested in signing up must do so before the June 7, 2013 deadline.

For more information on the 2011 SURE program, visit any FSA county office or www.fsa.usda.gov/sure

A Woman's Instinct Works Well From Treestands, Too!

By Michelle Trevathan
Special to the Carlisle Weekly
Editors Note: This article also appeared on the Buckmasters website.

My story ends with a big buck down, but it begins with this huntress making a judgment call that some hunters won't believe.

As the 2012 bow season approached, every hunter who had put time and effort into preparing for the upcoming season was very concerned about the extreme drought plaguing our area.

Our crops were hurting, the water sources were scarce, and the food plots were in poor condition until a little relief finally showed its face.

A couple of weeks before hunting season we finally received some much needed rain. It was too little, too late for crops in the fields, but just right for clover and turnip food plots to begin producing luscious greens deer can't resist.

Trail cameras we'd had placed several months before the start of the season revealed no sign of the monster that made its appearance the first evening of my first bowhunt for the season.

At first, a small buck made its rounds, which got me excited and ready. Later, the excitement continued when I heard rustling behind me.

From atop my 20-foot-tall, lock-on stand, I turned slowly to see four bucks walking out of the woods and onto the food plot.

The second buck in the group was a real bruiser!

As the bucks began to walk onto the field, I prepared to draw my bow, but my safety harness strap prohibited me from turning far enough.

My heart was pounding and my hands were shaking, partly from adrenaline and partly from frustration. I just knew I was going to miss my opportunity!

The largest buck finally moved to a place where I was able to draw my Mathews Jewel and take aim. But I couldn't get a shot I was comfortable with, so I let down the string. The massive buck eventually walked about 45 yards away and I drew again, but my inner voice said, don't mess up and try to shoot. If you do, you WILL miss and you'll NEVER see this buck again.

Once again, I relaxed my draw and let my bow down. Then, I had to watch helplessly as the buck simply walked away. I couldn't believe I'd just let this buck of a lifetime leave without attempting a shot. I was afraid I'd never live this down, and my decision would haunt me the rest of my life. Still, my instinct told me I'd made the better choice. As it turned out, my instinct was exactly right.

The next week we finally got a picture of this buck on a trail camera, and I was relieved to know it was still in the area. Eight days after its first appearance, I was rewarded for trusting my instinct, as I sat in my stand with the sun blazing down, conditions became favorable for my big buck to make an appearance. At 5:45 p.m., it did.

This time, the buck approached my stand at a much slower pace and better angle. I was going to get my second chance! When it stopped at 20 yards broadside, I released my arrow and watched it pass completely through the buck. Incredible! I couldn't have asked for an easier shot.

I truly believe this second opportunity was given to me because I didn't take a chance at wounding, spooking or missing the buck the previous week. Patience and faith paid off for this Kentucky girl. I couldn't be prouder of the way I trusted my instincts to eventually take this beautiful 167-inch 10-pointer.

ONE PRESSON’S VIEW

By Kay Presson

The older I become, the more I remember my mama’s advice and her words of wisdom. At the time Mama told me these words, I did not realize how important they would be in my life.

The following are a few of Mama’s words of wisdom:

1. “If it ain’t yours, don’t take it”
2. “Make me proud of you”
3. “Don’t waste anything, you may need it later”
4. “Treat people the way you want to be treated”
5. “Don’t do anything that will hurt or embarrass the family”

The last saying stood out strongly in my mind, as I walked through the Bardwell City Park this weekend. My granddaughter Xandra and I saw an entire roll of toilet paper someone had strung on a tree and the entrance to the City Park. There was also an orange highway cone, halfway up the communications tower besides City Hall.

Xandra and I got as much toilet paper off the tree and entrance as possible. Xandra is seven years old and I am 65 and I have issues with my back. She asked me why would someone do such a thing?

I told her of the sayings of my mother and ask you, the reader, your opinion as to why people would do such a thing?

Our families consist of more than just our biological families, we have our work families and church families as well. Bardwell is indeed a “Community of Unity” and I sincerely hope that the vandalism will cease. Halloween is fast approaching and let us all be able to enjoy this holiday without destruction.

This week's inspiration

This week's inspiration from scripture verses Mark 9: 38-50: Salt was very valuable hundreds of years ago. Wages were paid in salt and slaves were purchased with it. More wars have been fought over salt than over gold. Salt is essential to good life and helps maintain the body's internal mechanisms. It's no wonder Jesus used it in a metaphor to help explain how people are supposed to live. If salt becomes tasteless, what good is it?

Today's salt seems to last forever because it is pure. But in Jesus' day, the salt came from the Dead Sea and was not pure because it had sand mixed with it. It's difficult to preserve anything with impure salt. Love and truth are like the ingredients of salt – sodium and chloride. Without each other, they are less effective and unable to do what they can do together. Salt is used as a preservative to keep things from going bad and we need to use our 'saltiness' to do the same with people.

We need to expose people to the salt of Jesus Christ. Ask yourself, how salty am I? We need to pass the salt to those who aren't salty. If we don't, we will lose our saltiness and become spiritually stale.

AREA NEWS

Gov. Beshear Urges Kentuckians to Dispose of Old Medications

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Sept. 27, 2012) – Gov. Steve Beshear today announced that Kentucky will again take part in a national prescription drug take-back program to safely dispose of unused, unneeded or expired medications.

The Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day will be held from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Saturday at locations throughout the state. The service is free and anonymous, and no questions will be asked of people dropping off medications.

Drug overdoses kill more than 1,000 Kentuckians annually, but new data from the National Survey on Drug Use and Health shows a 14 percent drop in the number of adults 18 to 25 who used prescription drugs for non-medical purposes in the past month.

“There is promising news that the initiatives we’ve taken, both in Kentucky and in other states, are starting to have an impact,” Gov. Beshear said. “But the effects of prescription drug abuse are simply too devastating to become complacent. Medications, once they are no longer needed for their prescribed purposes, should be disposed of properly to reduce their risk of being diverted and abused.”

The Take-Back Day addresses vital public safety and public health issues: medicines left in home cabinets are susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse, and studies show a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, the initiative creates a safe, environmentally conscientious way to dispose of medications once they are no longer needed, since flushing the drugs down the toilet or throwing them in the trash pose potential safety and health hazards.

In Carlisle County you can take your old prescriptions to The Carlisle County Sheriff’s Department inside the Carlisle County Courthouse on US Highway 62 in Bardwell.

In total, the four previous DEA drug take-back programs have removed more than 1.5 million pounds of unwanted or expired medications from circulation.

To find a collection site, visit: [http://www.dea diversion.usdoj.gov/drug\_disposal/takeback/index.html](http://www.dea diversion.usdoj.gov/drug_disposal/takeback/index.html).

Governor Urges Citizens to Get Flu Shots This Season

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Sept. 28, 2012) – Governor Steve Beshear and First Lady Jane Beshear today urged Kentuckians to protect themselves against flu this season.

The Governor and First Lady received their influenza vaccinations from the staff of First Onsite Clinics, which provide health care services for state employees in several state office clinics.

“We make sure to get our flu shots because it’s the best way to prevent the illness,” Gov. Beshear said. “It’s a simple way to help keep yourself and your family healthy.”

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that everyone 6 months and older get a flu vaccine each year. For some people, it’s especially important to get vaccinated. Those include:

- People who are at high risk of developing serious complications like pneumonia if they get sick with the flu, including:
- People who have certain medical conditions including asthma, diabetes and chronic lung disease
- Pregnant women
- People 65 years and older
- People who live with or care for others who are at high risk of developing serious complications, including household members and caregivers of people with conditions like asthma, diabetes and chronic lung disease.

A detailed list is available from the CDC at <http://www.cdc.gov/flu/protect/whoshouldvax.htm>.

“No matter how often we wash our hands or cover our mouths when coughing or sneezing, the threat of catching the flu still exists,” said Mrs. Beshear. “Getting this vaccine is a valuable prevention tool against the flu virus – it is quick, nearly painless and will help Kentuckians be healthier in the upcoming season.”

“Getting vaccinated is the best way to protect yourself and your family from the flu,” said Dr. Kraig Humbaugh, state epidemiologist. “The flu can cause serious illness and even result in death, and so we encourage all Kentuckians to do their part to prevent its spread through our communities this year.”

“As part of the Kentucky Employees’ Health Plan’s (KEHP) overall wellness strategy, we are committed to creating greater access to preventative care, which is why we encourage all members to get vaccinated during our annual free flu shot campaign,” said Personnel Cabinet Secretary Tim Longmeyer. “Protecting Kentucky’s teachers, retirees, public employees and those they serve from the onset of the flu leads to fewer days missed from work, lower flu-related health care costs and helps to keep our members living well.”

KEHP members can receive a free flu shot now through Nov. 30 at a variety of participating provider locations including: doctors’ offices, health clinics, retail pharmacies, local health department and other medical providers. KEHP members can also receive a free flu shot, on a first-come, first-served bases, at a number of open enrollment benefit fairs across the state. Visit kehpn.org for additional information. Members can click here for specific benefit fair information.

Last year, nearly 73,000 state health plan members took advantage of this benefit. KEHP is planning for higher utilization this year due to the launch of a fully-incentivized wellness program, HumanaVitality®. Under the new program, members are rewarded for making healthy choices, including getting vaccinated. KEHP members can visit LivingWell.ky.gov for additional free flu shot information and to log in to HumanaVitality.

Transitioning Your Farm to the Next Generation: Are You Prepared?

Released by Sara Bogle, Carlisle County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences

Farm for sale...can't pay the estate taxes! Hopefully, this doesn't sound familiar. However, with land prices reaching new highs every month and tax laws changing almost as often, families must plan for this transition. Making plans to transfer assets from one generation to the next is not usually a pleasant task. It involves some very emotional subjects, specifically death and money, and you'll probably have to ask yourself some tough questions that don't have easy answers. Questions like, 'will the farm have to be sold to pay the estate taxes', or 'how can I divide my property fairly between my children', or 'how can I make sure the farming operation continues after I'm gone and everything is divided'.

All of those are tough questions and the easiest thing to do is nothing. However, that won't help you transfer the farm, nor will it ensure that a viable farming operation continues after you're gone. There's no magic formula to accomplishing these tasks because each family's situation is different. However, by listening to experts who've been involved in the process, farmers and landowners can gain valuable insight from specific examples and practical applications.

Dr. David Kohl, professor emeritus with Virginia Tech, is one such person. He will be the featured speaker for a seminar to be offered in two locations entitled: Planning for the Next Generation of Your Farm Family. One will be held November 15, 2012 at KY Dam Village State Resort Park Conference Center in Gilbertsville and the other on November 16, 2012 at the James E. Bruce Convention Center in Hopkinsville. Dr. Kohl was a professor of Agricultural Finance and Small Business Management and Entrepreneurship at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, VA for over 25 years. Now, he spends several days each month talking to farm families about effective ways to pass farms on to the next generation while keeping them in operation.

Other speakers include David Marrison, Extension Educator with Ohio State University, Dr. Steve Isaacs, Extension Professor of Ag Economics with the University of Kentucky and Attorney Vance Cook from Princeton, Kentucky. Each speaker will be addressing topics that emphasize the importance of communication between generations, having a plan for transition, and putting that plan into motion.

There's a common saying in estate planning that those who fail to plan, plan to fail, but how can you get started? That's often the most difficult part of transitioning because family members have to discuss unpleasant and sensitive subjects like death and money. However, if you know of a farm that's been in one family through several generations, it's a pretty good bet that they communicate with each other and have had a plan or multiple plans in place for a long time.

This seminar is designed for all members of a farm family: owners, operators, spouses, adult children and possibly even adult grandchildren. By focusing on specific subjects like communication, legal issues and each generation's wants and needs, farms can be transitioned successfully. Dr. Kohl estimates that by 2025, more than 70% of farmland in North America will change ownership. Will your farm still be operational when it passes to the next generation or will it even be owned by your family?

USDA Announces Hispanic and Women Farmer and Rancher Claims Period Now Open

Lexington, KY , September 25, 2012 - Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced that Hispanic and women farmers and ranchers who allege discrimination by the USDA in past decades can file claims between September 24, 2012 and March 25, 2013.

The process offers a voluntary alternative to litigation for each Hispanic or female farmer and rancher who can prove that USDA denied their applications for loan or loan servicing assistance for discriminatory reasons for certain time periods between 1981 and 2000.

As announced in February 2011, the voluntary claims process will make available at least $1.33 billion for cash awards and tax relief payments, plus up to $160 million in farm debt relief, to eligible Hispanic and women farmers and ranchers. There are no filing fees to participate in the program.

The Department will continue reaching out to potential Hispanic and female claimants, around the country to get the word out to individuals who may be eligible for this program so they have the opportunity to participate.

Call center representatives can be reached at 1-888-508-4429. Claimants must register for a claims package (by calling the number or visiting the website) and the claims package will be mailed to claimants. All those interested in learning more or receiving

New Area Code Needed in Western Kentucky

PSC Opens Case to Consider whether to Overlay or Split Area Code 270

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Sept. 27, 2011) – The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) has opened a proceeding that will lead to the creation of a new area code in all or a portion of the current area code 270, which covers western Kentucky.

In an order issued in late August, the PSC said that it had been notified by the North American Numbering Plan Administrator (NANPA) that area code 270 is projected to run out of available numbers by the third quarter of 2014. NANPA, which oversees the distribution of phone numbers and assigns area codes, subsequently revised that forecast to project number exhaustion by the first quarter of 2014.

The PSC will consider two options for creating the new area code. A telecommunications industry group convened by NANPA recommended an overlay, which would create a second area code – 364 - in the same territory now covered by area code 270. The second option is a split, which would assign area code 364 to a portion of the current area code 270 territory.

An overlay would permit retention of all current 270 numbers, but would require 10-digit dialing for local calls. A split would retain seven-digit dialing for local calls, but would require both wireless and landline customers within about half the current area code to change their phone numbers.

The PSC will conduct public meetings throughout the area code 270 territory in October to provide information about the options and to receive public comment. The locations and dates of the meetings will be announced in early October.

In addition, PSC staff will be available to make presentations to local governments, chambers of commerce, civic groups and other organizations. To schedule a presentation, contact Andrew Melnykovich, public information officer for the PSC.

This is the second time in six years that the PSC has addressed a projected number shortage in area code 270. A similar proceeding was initiated in July 2006.

In May 2007, the PSC ordered the creation of a new area code – designated by NANPA as 364 – in the western half of area code 270. Area code 270 was created in 1999 by splitting area code 502.

However, that split never took effect. The projected number exhaustion date for area code 270 was extended several times as the result of changes in the number assignment process and a reduction in demand for new numbers due to a slowing economy.

After postponing the implementation date five times, the PSC in December 2010 rescinded the decision and left area code 270 as is. Area code 364 has been retained for future use in western Kentucky.

The need for new area codes arises when there are no longer enough blocks of new numbers to distribute to telecommunication providers. In area code 270, numbers are known as NXX-X blocks.

That has not always been the case. Prior to May 2007, numbers in area code 270 were distributed in blocks of 10,000, known as NXX blocks. Because a company may not need to use all of the numbers in a code or block, the use of the smaller groupings reduces the quantity of numbers that are assigned but unused and can slow the pace of number exhaustion.

The PSC in 2001 had requested that the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) change number allocation in area code 270 to the smaller blocks in order to extend the life of the area code. It wasn't until May 2007, a few hours after the PSC issued an order to split the area code, that the FCC granted the request.

Once the number assignment was switched to the smaller blocks, telecommunication providers were required to return unused 1,000-number blocks to NANPA for reallocation. That significantly extended the life of area code 270, leading to the eventual cancellation of the split.

When it cancelled the split, the PSC said all options will be examined when a new area code is needed in the future.

The industry group that recommended the overlay did not support any alternative options and thus did not express a preference for a dividing line in the event that the PSC chooses to split area code 270.

In 2007, the PSC split area code 270 on a north-south line Cities designated to remain in area code 270 included Bowling Green, Columbia, Glasgow, Elizabethtown and Owensboro. Area code 364 was to cover the western portion of the current area code 270, including the cities of Henderson, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Murray and Paducah.

There is no assurance that another split would follow the same dividing line. The PSC has not scheduled an evidentiary hearing in the case, and will not do unless one becomes necessary.

Public comments addressing the telecommunications industry proposal for an overlay must be submitted to the PSC by November 16.

Anyone wishing to make comments can submit them by mail to the PSC at P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, KY 40602, by fax to 502-564-9625, or by e-mail from the PSC website. Comments also may be submitted in person at the PSC offices.

All records in the case are available on the PSC website, psc.ky.gov. The case number in the current proceeding is 2012-00129. The previous case was 2006-00357.

Seventh and Eighth grade students in Mrs. Harris' Life Skills class have been learning about how to apply for a job. Several local professionals helped by conducting mock "interviews" with each student. A big thank you goes out to each one of them!

Those who helped out were: Ashley Dowdy with Larry Reddick of Farm Bureau ; Dara Turner with Phillip King, Bardwell Mayor; Destite Purcell with Danny Beyer of Citizen's Bank; Lillian Williams with Randy McCallon, Carlisle Co. School Superintendent; Robert Peeler with Sara Bogle of the Carlisle Co. Extension office; and Jacob Deweese with Phillip King.
